Where Are They Now?

Jay Glascock, SAME Kittyhawk Post PR Chair and Webmaster 1999-2003

Contributed by: Joe Di Misa

The SAME Kittyhawk Post has had a number of outstanding and memorable leaders and members throughout our history. As people move on to other assignments and careers, we thought it would be interesting to catch up with some of our alumni.

We recently checked in with Jay Glascock, who served as the PR Chair and Webmaster from 1999 to 2003. He also served on the Assisted Readiness, Young Members, Awards, and many other committees during his tenure with SAME Kittyhawk. While Jay was at WPAFB he served as the Headquarters AFMC Staff Civil Engineer and Executive Officer to the Command Civil Engineer.

Mr. Glascock has been very busy since leaving WPAFB and SAME Kittyhawk. He graduated from Air University, Air Command and Staff College, was a Commander with the Civil Engineer Squadron of the United States Air Force and a Joint Staff Engineer with the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Mr. Glascock currently serves as a General Engineer in the Office of Engineering and Construction Management with the Department of Energy (DOE). In this role he develops policies and procedures governing the Department's construction and environmental project management efforts. Additionally, he supplies technical support to project performance reviews used by senior DOE executives to make critical decisions on all construction and environmental projects. He also assists senior-level executives to resolve challenging strategic planning, organizational and process improvement, energy, environmental, and contract management issues. He has also served as a project engineer, planner, programmer, designer, and manager for major construction, alteration, and repair projects at Air Force bases in the United States, Republic of South Korea, Jordan, and Ascension Island.

He attended the United States Air Force Academy to earn his BS in General Engineering and the University of New Mexico for his Bachelors and Masters of Science in Civil Engineering with emphasis in Construction Management.

Some of Mr. Glascock's fondest SAME Kittyhawk memories were judging at the West District Science Fairs at Wright State University with John Koerner and Gary Tucker and working with Dr. Goltz to award scholarships and nominations to the U.S. Air Force Academy Construction Camp to impressive high school students. He also enjoyed playing in golf tournaments with Jim Kennedy and Paul Cotelleso. He especially enjoyed putting together the design-build and anti-terrorism/force protection conferences with John Koerner and being involved in the planning of the Ohio Valley and Great Lakes Regional Conferences with Rosie O'Grady, Paul Cotelleso, Ken Cristofani, John Koerner and many others.

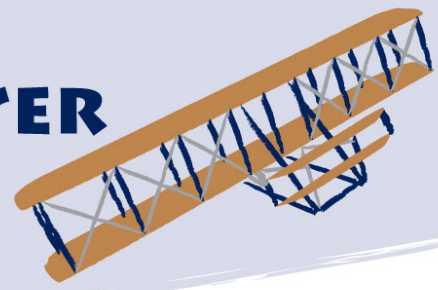

He currently lives in Woodbridge, Virginia with his wife, Jeryl, their two children, Samantha (16) and Joshua (12) and their two spunky Daschunds, Zazu and Marilyn.

In his spare time he is a coach with a travelling soccer team, the U-13 Patriots.

The Ohio State University Engineers Without Borders Chapter Invites You to Save the Date

October 20, 2010

The Ohio State chapter of Engineers Without Borders will be hosting the first annual fundraising banquet at the Faculty Club on the Ohio State Campus. Ohio State President Gordon Gee will be the keynote speaker, along with student members of EWB-OSU. Please join OSU-EWB and other professionals for the evening of October 20th.

Formal Invitation will be forthcoming, tickets will go on sale in early September.

About EWB-OSU: Currently, our student engineers are working on a latrine project in the neighborhood of Las Pilitas in San Pedro Puxtla, El Salvador, which will provide each household with access to a latrine. This project will improve the health and quality life of the entire community. The OSU chapter project is part of larger municipal services headed by the Central Ohio Professionals Chapter (EWB-COh).
